

Photo History

From December 2015 (Volume 58)

Photo History

The house renovations have revealed lots of odd photos etc so I have scanned some of these here as they all seemed too interesting to lose...

This is an old photo of Palmers Green on Coronation Day in 1937...yes folks...even before I was born

Our Mantra (#1)

We are old when, for the sake of comfort, we give up seeing the world...

Our Mantra (#2)

We are escaping to....not escaping from.....

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

DP was en route on Tres Hombres on the 'rum run' and Angela brought the kids here for a pre-Xmas visit. It was a fun time with present opening and fun in the park

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Photo History

Postscript : For some strange reason , the sequence of these books has been compromised and this album is now not sequential. So it contains various images, comments etc that are from all over the place...never mind...perhaps it's a reflection of my advancing years. It's still fun doing these books however and it gives me an opportunity to insert some interesting shots that somehow don't fit in anywhere (or would otherwise be forgotten)...Blimey...he does ramble on....